

MEMORY GAME

©1998 Children's Hospital of Pittsburgh

- Place all cards on a flat surface face down.
- The first player begins by turning over two cards to make a match.
- If a player turns over an ICAN card (wild card), he gets an extra turn. If he turns over a Mr. Yuk card, he loses a turn.
- The player with the most matched cards at the end of the game wins!
- Play alone or with a group!

DIRECTIONS

MAKE UP

Sample reproduction is not permitted.

PILLS

Sample - reproduction is not permitted

SOAP

ALCOHOL

COINS

SNAKE

NAILS

SMOKE

KEYS

IVY

PLANT

Sample reproduction is not permitted.

TOYS

Sample reproduction not permitted

MR. YUK

ICAN

THE CONCEPT

The "Yucky Stuff" Memory Game encourages children to identify and match everyday or commonly used products that may be potentially hazardous in the child's environment.

The "Yucky Stuff" Memory Game is a multi-purpose learning tool. The game's colorful, pocket-size cards show examples of the four forms of poison: solids, liquids, sprays and invisible products. The cards also may be used as flash cards to identify hazardous products... or, the word on each card can help beginning readers with vocabulary skills. And, of course, as an entertaining game, it encourages healthy competition and cooperation among players.

The Mr. Yuk face appears on stickers designed to prevent children from touching poisonous products. For Mr. Yuk to work in your family, teach your children that Mr. Yuk means No! Do not touch! Stay away!

Put Mr. Yuk stickers on items such as medicine, cleaning products and potted plants. For more information about poisons or for Mr. Yuk stickers, call your local poison center.

MR. YUK

Sample — reproduction is not permitted

The "Yucky Stuff" Memory Game

Illustrated by Elizabeth A. Keating

Match wits with your children and learn about the dangerous products in your home!

Sample — reproduction is not permitted

